

Stimson Says Danger Less To Pacific Coast, Says Few Japs Are in Aleutian Chain

Aircraft Carriers Are at Sea, He Reports, and Full Midway Story Untold

Data Conflicts
Army and Navy Reports Are Based on Same Facts, He Says

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today the losses inflicted on the Japanese in the Pacific had temporarily but substantially reduced the threat of an attack on the Pacific coast which he has repeatedly said might be expected. War and navy department information is, he said, that the Japanese thus far had made only a "very small landing" in the Aleutian Islands off Alaska but he stressed that fog and unfavorable weather obscured developments in the North Pacific.

Information is still incomplete, the secretary also told his press conference, on the earlier air and sea engagement off Midway.

"But after three days fighting the enemy fleet was scattered all over the Pacific Ocean, hustling away as fast as it could in the opposite direction, without air protection," he added.

In the Aleutians, Stimson said, the American and Japanese forces thus far had had only fleeting glimpses of each other through the eyes of airmen.

He promised that the government would make available "every bit of information we can," about the Aleutians as well as the earlier engagements of Midway Island in the Pacific and in the Coral Sea near Australia.

Stimson was asked whether the air and naval losses inflicted on the foe in the last several weeks had diminished the threat to the Pacific coast.

"Temporarily, I should say the threat was much less," he replied.

One reason the report was still incomplete on the Midway fight, the secretary said, was that many naval fliers were still at sea on aircraft carriers which were prohibited by radio silence orders from forwarding reports.

Outlining the difficulties of obtaining a clear and complete picture of a modern sea and air engagement, Stimson noted that the only contact between the American and Japanese forces off Midway was by means of hundreds of airmen.

"They were shooting in many cases at the same target without knowing that the other fellow was shooting at it," he said. "Flying at about 300 feet a second, there is little time for observation."

"Inevitably when the reports come in there is immense confusion. At Midway, where the weather was clear, the information available gave us a good general picture of the outcome but there was much confusion as to just what ships were hit."

"I spent three or four days studying the army and navy reports as they came in from the Midway battle, and didn't know at the end just how many ships were hit or what kind of units."

"Of the fighting in the Aleutians, we have not been able thus far to get even the general picture we had of Midway."

"I think I can speak for the navy as well as the war department," saying what we give you is our best judgment based on the mass of conflicting data."

U. S. Planes Take 10-1 Toll Of Japs at Coral and Midway Greater Blows Are Being Prepared, Admiral Nimitz Says in Talk to Pacific Fleet Personnel

Pearl Harbor, June 18 (AP)—American air power exacted a stunning toll of 10 Japanese men and planes for every one lost by the United States in the Coral Sea and Midway Island battles rapidly is being bulwarked for even greater sledgehammer blows. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz made the cheering disclosures yesterday aboard a fighting ship in an address to his Pacific fleet during which he urged the heroic veterans of the two titanic sea-air fights "to hold the line until our reinforcements are ready to take over."

Acknowledging that losses to United States carrier air groups have been heavy since the war opened, due to initial Japanese air superiority, the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet strongly hinted that the picture was changing rapidly.

Whereas the personnel on aircraft carriers had to fight on with little rest or relief in the first stages of the war, Admiral Nimitz said "It will soon be possible to organize additional carrier groups and to rotate them."

"Although we feel keenly the loss of many fine officers and men, we take pride in knowing they gave their lives to turn back grave threats to our country," he declared.

"We can take satisfaction in the knowledge that in every meeting with the enemy since December 7 his losses have greatly exceeded ours, and that in the Coral Sea and Midway actions his personnel losses were at least ten times greater than ours, and his plane losses in almost the same ratio."

"We are greatly increasing our battle strength. Our ships, planes and pilots are being added in constantly increasing numbers."

Admiral Nimitz praised the teamwork of the army, navy and marines in achieving the Midway (Continued on Page 17)

Truman Is Irked Over Production

Senator Demands Some Changes in W. P. B. Personnel and Cites Delays

Curbs Are Asked Report Would Restrict Executives Who Favor Own Businesses

Washington, June 18 (AP)—A demand for changes in men and methods of the War Production Board came today from Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) of the special Senate committee investigating national defense as he issued a report criticizing what the committee termed "damaging delay" in the conversion of major civilian industries to war purposes.

"The W.P.B. has not fully measured up to this responsibility," Truman said in a statement.

He went on to say that "fulfillment of this responsibility will require a change in both the organization and personnel of some branches and divisions in the W.P.B."

The 32-page printed report upheld part of the charges made against W.P.B. by Robert P. Buttrick, who resigned March 14 from the W.P.B. executive staff with a protest that some dollar-a-year men had impeded the war production program because of private interests.

Recommending additional restrictions upon big business executives now serving in the war production effort, the Senate committee said it believed that "the Guthrie case points to the conclusion that certain dollar-a-year men within the Bureau of Industry Branches (of W.P.B.) are unable to divorce themselves from their subconscious gravitation to their own industries."

Senators said these conclusions were based upon both public and closed hearings into charges made by Guthrie and others. Included were details and critical surveys of these industries: Refrigerators, radios, metal furniture, metal signs and kitchen utensils, laundry equipment, metal toys and games, typewriters, building construction, and textiles.

The Senate conclusions differed widely from an earlier report by a House military affairs subcommittee which commended efforts of a dollar-a-year man and said Guthrie's charges lacked proof other than as evidence of sharp differences of opinion among war production officials.

Philip D. Reed, chief of the W.P.B. Bureau of Industry Branches, was cited by the Senate committee as not having taken "the necessary action to obtain the maximum conversion of private industry to war production in the shortest possible time."

Reed was given the immediate superior when Guthrie and his friends quit W.P.B., and the report said Reed was serving W.P.B. "on a dollar-a-year basis, on leave from his position as chairman of the board of the General Electric Company from which company he is presently receiving a salary and bonus totaling $120,000 per year."

"The committee has not been impressed by Reed's ability or accomplishments," the report said.

Chairman Truman in his statement said: "This committee has repeatedly concluded that the work of the O.P.M. and W.P.B. has been hampered by the extent to which their personnel was a predominately drawn from the big business groups." He added that while there was no question as to patriotism, integrity, or ability, the "attitudes and associations which these men have acquired through the years makes it undesirable to rely upon them exclusively for direction of the war production programs."

Truman said that "labor has demonstrated its right to a greater degree of participation in the operating work of the War Production Board." He also recommended a "wider opportunity" for small businessmen to participate in W.P.B. administration and a place in the setup for "many of the country's outstanding independent-minded production engineers."

These engineers, he said, have "demonstrated a grasp of the conversion problem far in advance of that shown by many of the top industrial and financial executives."

Would Post Highways
New York, June 18 (AP)—The posting of highways and other areas in New Jersey, New York and Delaware where automobile headlights could be visible from the sea has been suggested by Major General Thomas A. Terry, commanding the Second Corps area. He said he sent letters yesterday to the governors of the three states containing the suggestion. Street or road commissioners along the coast could determine the roads or locations affected, said General Terry. "The point has been raised that many motorists are unable to determine in many instances the streets or other locations from which their headlights would normally be visible from the sea," he added.

Search for Plane Ends in County; All Are Located

Three Deaths Reported Among Canadian Fliers Forced Down Near Malone Peaks

Searching in the vicinity of Lackawack for a Canadian plane reported in trouble, ended today following an announcement that all missing planes have been located and that three deaths have resulted from yesterday's trouble of the training-plane pilots.

Two additional bodies, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Malone, have been found in a wrecked craft and were the last to be accounted for of the four Royal Canadian Air Force planes reported down in Northern New York's rugged mountains.

The victims were identified as D. O. Thompson, found yesterday, a pilot officer whose plane was one of three wrecked on Ragged Lake Mountain, 15 miles southeast of here, and Val Legacq, warrant officer second class, and a leading aircraftsman whose name was given only as Theorette.

Bodies of Legacq and Theorette were located soon after dawn today in a crumpled plane on nearby "W" Mountain after a 24-hour search.

The planes, each carrying two men, were blown off their course on a training flight early yesterday. Three men are hospitalized with minor injuries, two were treated for slight cuts and dismissed.

Two state conservation department rangers, Orville Betters and George Tebeau, discovered the fourth plane, and relayed the information here from a mobile radio unit.

No planes are unreported by the army and in view of the fact that there was no consent given for a plane from the local airport to continue scouting in the Lackawack section today.

Sheriff Howard C. Anderson and deputies who had been scouting the territory yesterday gave up this morning but gave up the search at noon and reported that unless something more definite was learned the search would not be resumed since apparently no planes were missing. State police also gave up the search and returned to their stations today.

Saw Plane
Tuesday evening workmen at the Lackawack dam saw a plane flying low over the locality. As it reached the dam it turned abruptly and flew to the right over the Yagerville countryside.

At the time it was estimated the plane was flying too low to cross the high peaks in the vicinity. Today it was reported that several people in the locality had heard the plane and one party reported hearing a crash about 11:10 o'clock. This may have been a blast on the water works project, however.

When the Canadian planes were reported missing yesterday a search was commenced in the locality where the reported crash had been heard but the location of all four planes in the Adirondacks eliminates them from the picture.

Today it was stated that the pilot of the plane seen near the dam may have lost his way in the heavy going and flew off his course until the dam was located. That may have acted as a guide and he may have resumed his course and avoided the mountains and made his destination on schedule.

This noon Sheriff Anderson said the search would be abandoned unless there were additional information regarding a missing plane or more certain information was received as to the location of a probable crash.

Permission Obtained

In order to fly over the terrain where the supposed crash happened it is necessary to get permission from the army. Since no planes are now unreported there is no need for giving such permission. The local airport sent a plane over the locality on Wednesday but poor visibility made it impossible to penetrate into the mountain country.

According to reports reaching Eugene P. MacConnell, Ulster county's district civil director of the Aircraft Warning Service, A. W. S. observation post No. 111-A at Ellenville, heard the roar of the plane and saw its lights disappearing over the ridge of the mountain. The time was set at 11 (Continued on Page 19)

Huge Expenditure Overshadows All Other Belligerents; Britain's Cost Is 337 Million Each Week

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Budget Director Harold D. Smith revealed today that America's arms factories are rolling so fast now that government war expenditures have climbed to approximately $1,000,000,000 per week.

"That shows," he said in an interview, "how we are going into action against the Axis."

The accelerated pace of war production, Smith continued, "assures our hitting on the nose our estimate of $28,000,000,000 of war expenditures for the fiscal year which ends this month."

He said the pace also made more probable his estimate that $70,000,000,000 would be spent for war in the coming fiscal year.

Treasury expenditures for war purposes alone, Smith explained, have climbed steadily from $409,400,000 in the week before Pearl Harbor to $844,000,000 last week. The $1,000,000,000 a week pace not only is the highest spending figure in American history, but it also overshadows every other belligerent's costs. Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the British exchequer, said yesterday that his country was spending $337,000,000 a week. German, Russian and other totals also are lower, although exact figures are not available.

Foreign money totals, however, are not necessarily comparable to American figures because of differences in resources and price levels.

No counting about $6,000,000,000 of other federal expenses that have to be paid for, the current fiscal year's war costs will be about twice as big as all federal tax revenues, estimated by Smith at $12,700,000,000. Sales of war bonds and regular government securities finance the balance.

Mexicans Patrol Gulf and Pacific Planes Seeking U-Boats With Sink on Sight Orders, Is Report

(By The Associated Press)
News of aid to the United States in the war on Axis submarines came from Mexico City today, with the announcement that Mexican patrol planes are scouring the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific under orders to "sink on sight" all prowling undersea boats.

While the officially announced toll of ship sinkings since Pearl Harbor remained at 276 in the Atlantic and adjacent waters, Gen. Robert Fierro, chief of Mexico's military aviation, said:

"Our pilots are winging far out to sea, searching for the enemy everywhere. We have no news of any encounters yet but our fliers hope it will not be long before they have an opportunity to fire their machine guns and loose their bombs against an enemy."

Mexico declared war on the Axis powers three weeks ago. Fierro said 12 modern patrol planes have reached Mexico in recent days and already are in service. Acknowledging difficulty in obtaining more ships speedily from the United States, he said Mexico is expanding its own manufacturing and repair facilities.

Germans Claim Most Vital Fort to Naval Base of Sevastopol Is Taken

Two Points Lost British Fall Back From Sidi Rezegh, El Adem Under Pressure

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Grave new threats to the British armies in North Africa and the Russian defenders of Sevastopol were reported today as the German high command asserted that Nazi troops had driven into Sevastopol's immediate defense ring and had split the British Libyan armies into two parts.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters said the German siege armies storming Sevastopol, the last big Soviet stronghold in the Crimea, had captured Fort Gorky and driven within two miles of the harbor entrance.

The communiqué described Fort Gorky as "the most modern and strongest bastion of the whole fortress."

Besides capturing Fort Gorky in the main fortifications north of the city, the Axis assault forces also drove back stubborn Red army troops on the southern fortifications, the Hitler command said.

The Nazi claim of having knifed into Sevastopol's ring of fortifications was unconfirmed elsewhere, the Russians declaring they had beaten off a series of savage new attacks.

In the Libyan desert struggle, British imperial headquarters acknowledged that British troops had withdrawn from two key defense points at Sidi Rezegh and El Adem.

The German high command said the British forces had been split into two parts.

British Are Pursued
A Nazi communiqué said strong German and Italian tank formations were pursuing the east-bound British column, which was described as "fleeing" toward Bardia, 15 miles from the Egyptian frontier.

The communiqué asserted that several desert forts on the southern perimeter of Tobruk's defenses had been captured.

Sidi Rezegh is 25 miles southeast of Tobruk and 50 miles from the Egyptian frontier; El Adem is 18 miles due south of Tobruk.

An Italian war bulletin asserted that aerial reconnaissance disclosed the British were beginning a general withdrawal toward the Egyptian frontier.

Dispatches from Cairo said the British desert armies had apparently split into two forces, one falling back to fortified positions near the Egyptian border, the other remaining to defend Tobruk.

Last year, the British withstood eight months of violent siege at the Mediterranean coastal fortress until relieved by a new expeditionary force striking out of Egypt. This claim was unconfirmed elsewhere, however.

The Reuters (British news agency) correspondent at Cairo, headquarters of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's imperial command, said Tobruk was "practically surrounded," with the coastal road the only route left open to the east.

Despite Axis armored supremacy, the British declared they still maintained superiority in the air. The setback at two vital points on the half-moon front apparently meant that the British were now falling back on Tobruk's main defense works, where British tommycans, Australian, New Zealanders and Indian troops made history with their stand against Axis siege armies last year.

Numerically out-numbered in tanks and other armored equipment after 24 days of fierce desert fighting, the British evidently elected to retire behind Tobruk's perimeter of solid fortifications.

An Italian communiqué said Axis armored columns had captured strong British positions in the El Adem sector and were mopping up British troops pocketed farther west in the vicinity of Ain Al Gazala.

The Fascist command said Axis warplanes were blasting at British troops and lines of communications between El Adem and the Egyptian border, apparently seeking to prevent the arrival of reinforcements from the east or a retreat from the Tobruk area toward Egypt.

In the Soviet campaign, Russia's armies beat off a series of furious new assaults on the bloody plains and heights around Sevastopol and shattered tank-led German infantry attacks on the Kharkov front amid indications that the Nazi war machine was losing some of its knockout punch.

Missouri Jack Is Coming Back In Army Due to Rubber Shortage

St. Louis, June 18 (AP)—Ask any veteran mule trader and he'll tell you the Army can't win the war without Missouri Jack.

Mules, the motive power for the A.E.F. in France, fell into disrepute with the surge of the motorized German blitzkrieg, but are coming back again, even though for more menial tasks than formerly fell their lot.

Dealers in the national stockyards have been informed the Army plans to replace more than 1,500 automobiles and trucks with animal drawn vehicles as a means of saving 315,000 pounds of rubber annually.

Civilians already are a jump ahead of the Army in turning to horses and mules because of the tire situation.

Farmers, suburbanites and business concerns are booming the market, paying prices 25 per cent higher than last year.

Six hundred animals were sold one day this week at the Sparks-Norris Commission Company's auction, compared with a day's sales of only 100 two years ago when the business went into the doldrums after the fall of France.

Good work horses are bringing as much as $150, saddle horses as high as $200, colt mules $150 and common mules $85.

Business would be even better, but for one bottleneck, says W. F. Sparks, partner in the commission firm.

"People can't get buggies or wagons. If that industry would do a comeback, we'd have a land office business."

Coffee Card Rationing Is Unlikely; But Grocers Will Have to Check Stock

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Card rationing of coffee is unlikely in the immediate future but grocers will have to keep a close rein on the amounts sold to customers under the quota system, Harold B. Rowe, director of food rationing, indicated today.

He said that because of the ever-present possibility of more drastic curtailment of shipping space he could give no assurance that coffee would not be rationed.

The War Production Board's coffee quotas for July, soon to be announced, are reported to provide the same amount as in the past two months—75 per cent of 1941 deliveries.

Since the quotas delivered to wholesalers and dealers govern the amount available to the general public, grocers in most cases have instituted informal rationing systems of their own to assure equitable distribution among householders. Chain stores in some cases have restricted purchases to one pound or even one-half pound per person, and restaurants and hotels have posted notices requesting patrons not to buy more than one cup.

No serious depletion of coffee supplies have been reported, although import figures have not been made available because of the information on shipping which they might disclose to the enemy. Private sources estimated the country's total supply in mid-May at about 3,000,000 bags, or approximately three months supply at the normal consumption rate,

Discrimination

Chattanooga, Tenn. — Chattanooga roosters can crow but dogs had better keep their yaps to themselves after June 30.

A new anti-noise ordinance includes a provision which makes a violation the "keeping of any dog causing frequent or long continued noise."

Deleted from the bill was a section deferring "to any bird or fowl."

Double Feature

Newark, N. J. — Some of the folks saw double—literally—at Weequahic High School's commencement.

Exercises for the 400 graduates were held in the afternoon and again in the evening so all of their relatives and friends could see them receive their diplomas.

It's All Talk

Wilson, N. C. — For 10 years a group of men met from time to time in front of Harry Walls' tailor shop and talked of the weather, politics and world problems. In the winter, they sat inside. They called themselves the Squatters' Club.

Walls moved away and the men, afraid a new proprietor might not like their company, chipped in and rented his shop quarters.

Now there'll be no business there except talking.

Anvil Chorus

Tacoma — Brrrr! Boom! Clang! Went the wedding bells.

On his marriage license application Robert W. Hawkins listed his occupation as shipfitter.

His bride-to-be, Betty Barrington, said she was a riveter.

Safe Deposit Box

Prescott, Ariz. — For many years a service station disposed of old tires by rolling them into a 1,000-foot deep canyon.

Now the proprietor has hired eight boys with burros to bring them back.

They've brought up seven tons.

Influenced Juror

Spokane — The stork failed to stop the wheels of justice, but did manage to kick out one of the 12 spokes.

A Superior Court trial went right ahead with an 11-man jury, when Juror Kellogg Finley was excused. He had just become the father of a baby girl.

Defense Stamps as Tips

Stuart E. Hockenbury, vice president of operations of the American Hotels Corporation, on his recent visit to the Governor Clinton Hotel, inaugurated the practice of tipping with defense stamps. Mr. Hockenbury travels extensively, and visits many hotels. He carries an envelope filled with stamps of different denominations, and bellboys and waiters, etc., receive stamps for their services. Uncle Sam benefits not only from the stamps purchased by the donor, but the practice stimulates interest in the receiver. A stamp obtained in such a way, is often the first stamp in a book toward a bond.

For Labor Service

Bern, Switzerland, June 17 (AP) — The Germans have called up all men of 21 to 29 in Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania for a year of labor service in Germany, a Berlin announcement said today. The three Baltic states, absorbed by Russia in 1940, now are occupied by German forces. An Athens dispatch published in L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican City newspaper, said 26,000 Macedonians have been conscripted for German labor service.

Panama Rations Tires

Panama has rationed future imports of tires and tubes from the United States. Due to the shortage some automobiles are out of service and the use of others is restricted, it is reported in Panama City. Panama relies largely on automobiles because of the absence of other transport.

Catchers' Season

New York (P)—A catcher looks like a good bet to win the National League batting championship this season.

Babe Phelps of Pittsburgh, Ray Lamanno of Cincinnati, Ernie Lombardi and Clyde Klutz of Boston, and Mickey Owen of Brooklyn have been among the leaders since the pennant race began.

SHOKAN

Shokan, June 17—Mrs. Edmund Gearon of Brooklyn arrived Saturday at her Shokan place, "Windridge," to spend a few days.

Callers in the village Sunday included Lester Barringer of Krumville. Lester, who has been employed at Lackawack, is now assisting his father, John Barringer, on the farm.

Sunday afternoon's heavy shower came in good for growing crops. The rain was followed by a gale which did little damage; oats were flattened in spots but corn fortunately was not high enough to be injured by the wind.

Bob DuBois, an employee of the Secor farm for some time, has secured a factory job in New Jersey.

Mrs. Fred Adsit is caring for her sister, Mrs. Harold Eignor, who is ill.

Herbert A. Dibbell is one of the early birds in haying this season. "Bert" leveled his fields of tall grass with a machine attached to his rubber-tired tractor.

Floyd Merrihew, well known Ashokan watershed inspector of the upper Esopus Creek sector, was stationed down at the reservoir center last Sunday.

Word has been received here of the death of Henry Wands Burr, Friday, June 12, at the Memorial Hospital in Syracuse. The young man, who was 25 years of age, leaves a wife and two-year-old son; his mother is the former Amy Wands of Shokan.

A local marriage of June 17, 1890, was that which united Isabelle Markle of Shokan to Robert Flight of Brooklyn. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. William H. Vaughn of the Methodist Church, and witnesses to the ceremony were Franklin S. and Jennie Towne of Kingston. The bride was a daughter of Abigail (Davis) Markle, whose farm house was on the present Dibbell place; she was a sister of Mrs. Charles Mac Donough of Kingston and Mrs. R. W. Longyear of Shokan.

Mrs. Karin Lunden of the north boulevard left town Monday to spend two days in New York.

Albert White, St. Remy young man who resided here and attended the Shokan school several years ago, plans to enlist in the army signal corps about July 1.

Enthusiastic Victory gardeners here include Mrs. Earl Elmendorf who spends much time daily in her flourishing vegetable plot.

Sunday afternoon travel on Route 28 and the reservoir boulevards was perhaps heaviest thus far in June.

Opening numbers of the Children's Day program at the Shokan Reformed Church last Sunday were the Doxology, prayer by the pastor and congregational reading.

Following the offering an address was made by the Rev. August Pfau. Music and recitations were in charge of Mrs. August Pfau and Miss Hazel Bell, respectively.

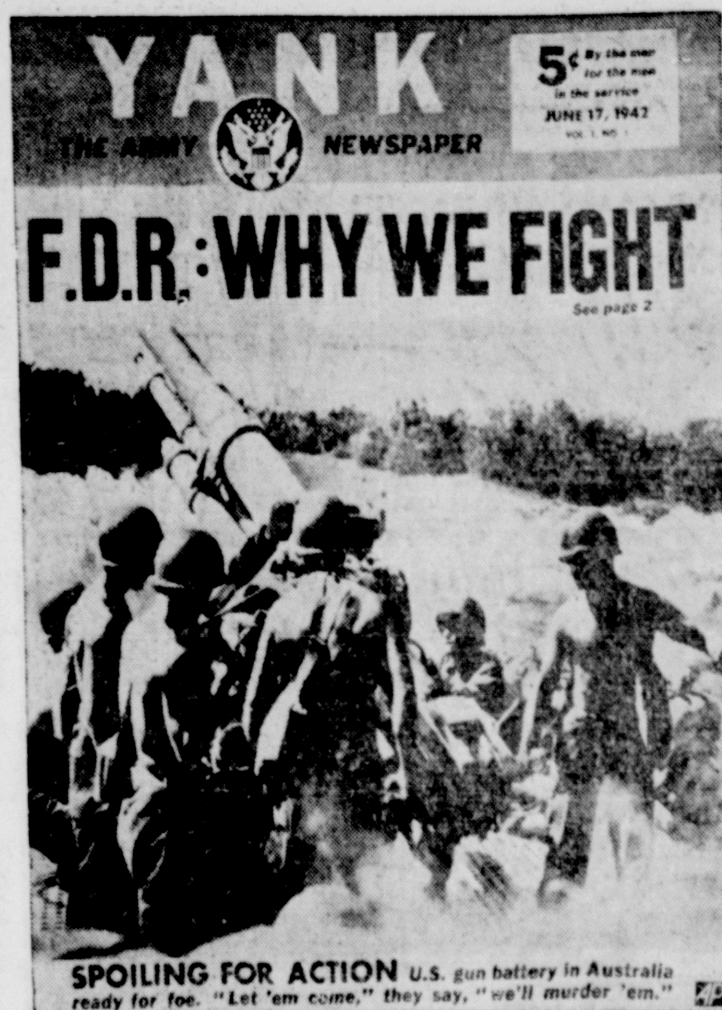

General singing of hymns formed a part of the program which included a duet by Nancy North and Sandra Pfau, together with recitations by the following members of the Sunday school: Sonja Berg, Anna Grossmann, Harriet Glass, Joan Pfau, Douglas Glass, Donald North, Edward Grossmann and Velma Personeus.

Stingy With Earned Runs

New Haven (P)—Ted Harrison, Yale pitcher, wound up his collegiate career with one of the best earned-run averages in Eastern Intercollegiate League history.

Leading the circuit for the third straight year Harrison this season allowed only nine earned runs in 62 innings for a mark of 1.31.

'YANK' MAKES ITS BOW

The first issue of "Yank," the Army newspaper published by enlisted men for enlisted men, makes its bow with the cover (above) of the first issue showing a U. S. gun crew in Australia. A letter from President Roosevelt is printed on page 2 and the publication is profusely illustrated with cartoons and photographs.

Simple Rules in Event of Enemy Gas Attack Here

Simple "do's and don'ts" for civilians to remember in the event of an enemy gas attack were made public today by the office of Colonel Walter W. Metcalf, acting director of the Second Civilian Defense Region.

In releasing the information issued from Washington, it is noted that while it may not be found possible to distribute gas masks for the general civilian population, civilians, unlike soldiers can get out of a gassed area or can find relative safety above the level of the gas. Soldiers require gas masks because they must remain in contaminated areas to carry out their military duties.

While there is no immediate anticipation of a chemical warfare attack on our shores, there is always the possibility that the enemy may at some time launch a gas attack against us. If people will remember a few simple facts, they need have no unreasonable fear of this type of warfare.

War gases stay close to the ground, for they are heavier than air. To get out of a gassed area, simply walk against the wind or go upstairs.

Gas is irritating and annoying to the eyes, nose, lungs, or to the skin, but it is usually harmless if you do not become panicky but promptly leave the gas area and cleanse yourself. A soldier must put on a mask where it is necessary to remain in the contaminated area, but a civilian can go up on the second or third floor and literally ignore it if the windows are kept closed.

If the gas should get on your skin, you can prevent it from doing much harm by sponging it off as quickly as possible with a piece of clothing, such as a handkerchief, and applying some neutralizing substance, followed by a thorough bath, preferably a shower, with common laundry soap and water.

If you are indoors, stay there with doors and windows closed, and go up to the second or third story. Stay out of basements. Turn off the air conditioner, and stop up fireplaces and any other large openings.

Some gases are spread as oily droplets which blister and burn the skin and eyes. If you are outside when gas is used do not look up. Tear off a piece of clothing or use a handkerchief to blot any drops of liquid from your skin and throw the contaminated cloth away. Blot, do not rub, as rubbing will spread the liquid. Then go home, if it is nearby, or to the nearest place where you can wash immediately with soap and water and cleanse yourself in the following manner:

Remove all outer clothing outside the house, since gas can be transmitted to others from contaminated clothing. Put it preferably in a covered garbage pail.

Apply one of the following effective household remedies to the part of your skin that has been contaminated; Chlorax or similar

Wages in Summer Resorts Explained

Sums to Be Taxable Are Listed by Board

There is one aspect of the taxes levied under the Social Security Act which is of especial importance to owners of summer resorts and hotels, it was stated today by Mr. Dubliner, Manager of the Kingston Field Office of the Social Security Board.

Under the provisions of the Act, wages do not include cash only. The Act defines wages as "all remuneration for employment, including the cash value of all remuneration paid in any medium other than cash."

In many hotels and summer resorts, employees are paid a certain amount in cash, and also receive food and lodging. In making the tax deductions, these items are included. In other words a value must be placed on them, and the tax paid, it was explained. For instance, if it is determined that the employee's food and lodging are $50 a month, the total wage on which the tax would be paid would be the cash wage plus $50.

Another point for employers to remember: the tax is collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The Social Security Board has no connection with the tax collections, or with the rules and regulations concerning them. Therefore, any tax problems in connection with the Social Security Act should be submitted to the local Collector of Internal Revenue at Albany.

Information about the old-age insurance program under the Act may be obtained from the Kingston Field Office of the Social Security Board at the Post Office Building.

Models of Warplanes
Albany, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—Governor Lehman received today nearly three score scale models of warplanes made by New York school children. Presented by Dr. Lewis A. Wilson, deputy state education commissioner, and Roy G. Fales, state supervisor of industrial arts, the planes are duplicates of models made in schools for the United States army and navy pilot training program.

That's What Counts
Sun Valley, Ida. (AP)—Here's Sun Valley's first fish story of the season, and it's a good one. It's a story about a trout who hooked a girl. Dolores Hegstrom, fishing at Magic Dam, pulled in a trout and discovered that her hook had never touched the fish. It had been hooked by a previous angler, had swallowed one hook, and still had another hook and piece of leader dangling from its mouth. The free hook caught on to the girl's hook, and that's how the "catch" was made.

household bleach (for mustard); peroxide of hydrogen (for Lewisite); paste or solution of baking soda if you have no peroxide or bleach. If you do not know the gas, use both peroxide and bleach. Keep bleach and peroxide out of the eyes. Do not waste time looking for these remedies: bathe immediately, if they are not at hand. After entering the house, wash the bleach or peroxide from hands with laundry soap and water and then wash the face. Remove the underclothing, place it in a covered garbage pail, and enter the bathroom.

Irrigate the eyes with large amounts of lukewarm 2 per cent solution of baking soda (one tablespoon to a quart of water), or else with plain water. Use an ordinary irrigating douche bag or an eye irrigator. If you do not have these, let plain warm water pour into the eyes from the shower, washing them thoroughly. Do not press or rub the eyes.

Lastly, take a shower, using laundry soap and hot water.

If the nose and throat feel irritated, wash them out also with baking soda solution.

If your chest feels heavy and oppressed, if you have any trouble breathing, or if cigarette smoke becomes distasteful, lie down and stay perfectly still until a doctor sees you.

If blisters develop, be careful not to break them and call a doctor.

Injured persons, who are gassed, require decontamination before they can be admitted to hospitals. All other civilians can best prevent any serious injury by promptly helping themselves in the manner outlined, using a kitchen or bathroom, laundry soap and water, and a few materials found in every household.

Letters Are Read In Rector's Case

Will Litigation Finds Love Expression Made Part of Court's Record

White Plains, N. Y., June 18 (AP)—Letters in which Dr. Henry Darlington, Episcopal rector expressed love for the wealthy widow who would to him a large part of her $1,300,000 estate, were read yesterday into the record of the suit challenging the widow's will.

The proponents of the will contend the letters were "decent and proper" and evidence of an innocent friendship.

The contestants, relatives of the late Mrs. Anna H. Paton, who are seeking to break the will, see them as showing "a relationship of intimacy very difficult to name."

The letters—nine of them, plus two postcards—dated from 1926 to 1940. They ranged from a simple acknowledgement of a gift to the church to such expressions as "I send you oceans of love."

Originally, the correspondence was filed by the contestants to back up their contention that "undue influence" was responsible for Mrs. Paton's will which left 30 per cent of the estate to Dr. Darlington and another 10 per cent to his church, the fashionable Church of Heavenly Rest.

Most of the reading in Westchester surrogate court yesterday, however, was done by Theodore Kiendl, attorney for the executors of the will, who seek to have it probated. "Only a warped mind can distort these letters to what the contestants claim," Kiendl said.

One letter was read by Joseph A. Nickerson, counsel for the contestants. This one said, "I think of you all the time. I miss you very much. Love and then more love, affectionately, Harry."

Kiendl charged the contestants with "ruthless cupidity" in bringing the suit, asserting that Mrs. Paton, who was 78 at the time of her death last year, had a son who would have been about Dr. Darlington's age—51—if he had lived, and she conducted herself "almost as a mother" to the rector.

"It was a fine, splendid, honorable relationship," he said as he recounted her gifts totalling $49,621 to the church and other gifts, including three automobiles, to Dr. Darlington.

Dr. Darlington and his wife sat side by side in the courtroom. Both were calm and Mrs. Darlington was knitting a blue sweater.

Mrs. Elijah H. Sitter, widow of Mrs. Paton's brother, and her two daughters, Mrs. Mary Owen and Mrs. Elizabeth Pemberton, all of Philadelphia, are the contestants. The will, the last of 14 made by Mrs. Paton, bequeathed them $5,000 each.

MODENA

Modena, June 18—A special meeting of the Modena Rod and Gun Club was held Monday evening at the home of the newly elected president, Louis Hyatt. Plans were outlined for a new program of activity.

Joseph E. Hasbrouck has been appointed chairman of the U.S.O. drive in the town of Plattekill, which started Monday, June 8, and will continue to Monday, July 6. Ulster county's quota is $28,500 and will include 20 townships.

The navy relief campaign ended recently, with Donald Williamson, chairman of the town of Plattekill drive, reporting successful returns. Members of the Modena Boy Scouts assisted in the drive.

Local members of the Plattekill Grange attended a meeting in the Grange Hall Saturday evening when a patriotic program was held in observance of national flag day.

Donna and Linda Paltridge, young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Paltridge, were baptized in the Modena Methodist Church Sunday during the annual Children's Day exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Matheson were visited by relatives from Paterson, N. J., last week-end. Miss Georgia Jenkins of Bridgeport, Conn., spent the past week-end at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy DuBois and daughter, Mary Lou, were visitors in Kingston Friday.

Mrs. Hector Avery entertained her daughter, Mrs. Dederick Ronk and family of Ardonia at dinner Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bernard of Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Bennett and daughters, Mary Lou of Middletown, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Paltridge Sunday.

Miss Margaret Harcher and Harry Denton spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wager.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Anderson and family spent the past week-end at their home north of Modena village.

Donald Paltridge has enlisted in the U. S. Army and not the navy, as reported.

Pupils of the Modena school will hold their annual picnic, marking the closing of the school term on Friday at the Wahl farm, south of Modena.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Williams and daughter, Louis, entertained company at their home Sunday. Mrs. Roy DuBois and daughter, Mary Lou, were in New Paltz Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Gloria Paltridge of Kingston spent the past week-end at her home here.

Mrs. Anna Miller left town Tuesday for Malden-on-Hudson, where she will spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. Myron Miller and son, Myron, Jr.

Laura Eileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Eckert of Walden, former residents of Modena, was baptized in the Walden Methodist Church Sunday.

Strange South American Tribes
The Brujas Indians have their homes in the hills in Peru. This tribe is one of the strangest in all South America. Instead of remaining in one place they wander like gypsies all over the continent. Like European gypsies they are horse traders and are also known as wizards. On one occasion a child of a wealthy planter was dying of an unknown disease. One of these Indians offered to cure her. He mixed up a remedy and administered the powder to the sick child and in a few days the child recovered from the illness.

Ecuadorians Use Palm Trees
The palm tree is very important to the people of Ecuador. There are more than three hundred kinds. The broad leaves have a fiber which is woven into hats, clothing, hammocks, thatch or covering for roofs, and many other useful articles. Sharp pointed instruments used as needles, are obtained from the leaves, and the fiber serves as thread. The trunk furnishes fuel and building material, while the fruits provide food, drink and medicine.

Order of Purple Heart Seeks New Members in Area

Renewed effort to strengthen the membership in the Ulster county area of the Order of the Purple Heart, is now under way. It was announced today by John J. Feeley, of Woodstock, deputy chief of staff of the Department of New York.

Mr. Feeley and Robert Brown, of West Hurley, also a member in long standing of the honorary servicemen's organization, hope to communicate with all eligible for membership in the region and to stimulate renewed interest in the order among those who are already members.

In view of the fact that many now in service will be awarded the medal of the order, its active members now hope to make the organization a more important factor among servicemen's groups.

It is estimated that at least 70 men in Ulster county are eligible for membership.

This organization has its origin close to home in that it was started by George Washington, August 7, 1782, at Newburgh. It is expected that the county chapter will have its headquarters in Kingston.

The organization is one composed exclusively of combat-wounded veterans and those who have been cited for meritorious service by their commander-in-chief.

Articles left in London public transport vehicles indicate that soldiers are as forgetful as civilians.

Ford to Wed

The engagement of Josephine Ford to Walter Buhl Ford II, Yale University senior, was announced by Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, and Mrs. Ford. Miss Ford is the only granddaughter of Henry Ford. The young couple, not related, reside in Grosse Pointe, a Detroit suburb. No date has been set for the wedding.

U.S.O. Workers Meet

U. S. O. workers of the second district, second ward, are requested to meet at 8 o'clock this evening at the A. H. Wicks Engine Company at 325 Foxhall avenue.

Britons are using American slang.

SOUTH RONDOUT

South Rondout, June 18 — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rice and family have moved to Port Ewen.

George Wolf and son of Briarcliffe were recent visitors of his sister Mrs. Kate Kuhl of Third street.

L. Watrous and family of Kingston have moved to the John Fisher house.

A number of week-end visitors are at Brookside Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wesley and daughter, Lillian, of Port Ewen visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wesley on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bigler are improving their house.

James Wesley has returned to his work in the Hercules Powder Co. after recovering from his recent accident.

Mrs. James Wesley was given a surprise party in honor of her birthday by officers of Mystic Court at the last meeting in Masonic Temple. She also was guest of honor at the farewell party given by the C. O. 2 Boys of Hildebrandts and was the recipient of many gifts and flowers.

Bitten by Dog

Nelson Lewis, a meter reader with the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., reported to the police department Wednesday afternoon that he had been bitten twice on the left leg and once on the right leg by a dog owned by Alice Monaghan of 139 Chambers street. He reported that the wounds had been dressed at the Kingston Hospital by Dr. C. B. Van Gasbeek.

Workers Are Commended

New York, June 18 (AP)—Two civilian navy yard workers who as boys saw the U. S. battleship Maine slide down the ways at Brooklyn were commended for 50 years service by Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquart, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, yesterday. Both men, Fred C. Whitehouse of Woodhaven, Queens, chief engineering draftsman in the hull designing section, and Hiram L. Meeker, of Rockville Center, L. I., senior naval architect in the same department, will continue working although they have reached the retirement age. The men, who received certificates for "allegiance and devotion to the navy," began work in the yard when mules and horses supplied power.

Barbados Food Soars
Prices of food in Barbados, British West Indies, have risen 40 per cent during the war. Bridgetown reports the cost of living trend is upward. To obtain a larger supply the government has ordered plantation owners to plant 5 per cent of their total acreage in ground crops. Peasants owning two acres or more come under the order. The Anglo-American Caribbean Commission is relied on for adequate food supplies from outside sources.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Children's Day Head

New Paltz, June 17—Children's Day exercises presented by the children of the primary department and directed by the teachers and leaders of the Sunday School were given in the Methodist Church Sanctuary Sunday morning, June 14, at 10:30 o'clock. This program took the place of the regular Sunday school period and church service and was attended by a large crowd. The following were baptized: Charles Turner, Jr., Jeffery Earl Jerald, Ronald Elsworth Mackey, and Marjorie Elaine Mackey. Four boys marched up the center aisle bearing the American flag while the congregation sang "The Star Spangled Banner," which was followed with the salute to the flag. Benediction, the Rev. D. W. Soper, recessional. Miss Margaret Newton, organist. Mrs. D. W. Soper and Miss Annie Christensen, pianists. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and greens.

Village Notes

New Paltz, June 17—A number of citizens and people of the vicinity attended the dedication service of an American and Service Flag in Modena in honor of the boys from there who are in service. The services took place on the grounds opposite the Modena Hotel where a flag pole was erected. The grounds were graded and put in shape by volunteer workers and the flags purchased with volunteer contributions. The master of ceremonies for the occasion was W. F. Courter.

Increase in Milk Business Shown In League Report

Buffalo, June 18—Dairymen's League Co-operative Association sales in the fiscal year ending March 31 amounted to $74,511,380, an increase of $14,054,170 over the previous year, said President Fred H. Sexauer reporting to the annual membership meeting here today.

More than 1,000 Dairymen's League members from all parts of the New York Milk Shed attended the annual meeting at Kleinhans Music Hall. Attendance was less than at previous conventions of the association because of war conditions, which were recognized by Mr. Sexauer in his opening remarks.

"We gather in the midst of a world at total war," said Mr. Sexauer. "Winning of the war must be the first consideration of every man, woman and organization. He who seeks to serve his own ends, to the detriment of others, or the nation, whether to gain profit, position or social reform, at the expense of that purpose, is a traitor to his country and the principles for which we stand."

The League, said Mr. Sexauer, has always stood for the "principles of freedom, fair play, community and national good," and that its members "are conditioned and prepared for this great struggle."

The League handled 2,532,987, 979 pounds of milk (29,453,349) forty quart cans or 1,178,133,960 quarts for its 29,244 active participating members. Returns to members averaged 46.9 cents per hundredweight higher than the year before, and average return per member for the year advanced 32 per cent from $1,633 to $2,162.

PVT. JOHN HYLAND

Private John Hyland, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hyland of 155 Broadway is stationed at Moore Field, Mission, Tex. He is serving in the radio department.

The League operates 106 country plants of which 13 are manufacturing operations. It also has 16 city distribution branches, which serve 52,000 customers.

Stating that government policy to some degree determines prices of farm products, Mr. Sexauer added:

"When government policy becomes the determining factor in establishing farm prices the question is: Who shall determine government policy? Shall it be the politician, bureaucrat, labor, business or farmers; or, a combination of all, and can there be rural influence by farmers unless they are effectively organized? Our job is to help determine government price policies."

Russian Interest in United States Flowering

Moscow, June 17 (AP)—Russian interest in the United States and Great Britain is flowering as a result of their war aid and their latest pacts with Russia.

Since Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov's historic visit to London and Washington and the subsequent announcements of the new Soviet-British mutual assistance pact and the Soviet-American lend-lease agreement, their closer ties have been emphasized by these developments.

Two new editions of English grammars have been put on sale at news stands.

The library of the Foreign Languages Institute opened an exhibit of the works of the English writers, Galsworthy and Shelley.

News reels of British anti-aircraft defenses are being shown to loudly applauding movie audiences.

The culture and rest bureaus have instituted a series of lectures for children on the history of the United States and Great Britain.

On United Nations Day last Sunday, allied colors were flown and the press gave prominence to the occasion.

The government newspaper Izvestia also printed a six-column review of the United States armament program.

Summing up, the newspaper said: "America is forging arms; it is forging them according to the resolution of the workers and steel industry of the United States to make 1942 a year of victory."

No Excuse for Crime

Bridgeport, Conn., June 17 (AP)—Coroner Theodore E. Steiber, holding voluntary indulgent in liquor to be no excuse for committing crime, declared in a finding today that Edwin S. Bartlett, 38, Mount Vernon, N. Y., engineer, was criminally liable for the gun-shot death of Gunnar A. Hummel, 43, a cement salesman of White Plains, N. Y. Hummel was shot in the head June 10 while Bartlett was engaging in target practice with a .22 caliber pistol in the office of the Barbaresi Construction Company here. The coroner said that Hummel was drunk and that Bartlett was "feeling happy."

P-40's Commended

Buffalo, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—The performance of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation's P-40 airplanes in the thick of the fighting off the Aleutian Islands has won the commendation of the chief of the U. S. Army Air Force, General H. H. Arnold. Arnold telegraphed his comments yesterday to the Curtiss-Wright president, Guy W. Vaughan, and his message was read to Curtiss-Wright workers in the Buffalo plant over a public address system. General Arnold expressed appreciation "to the men and women of your company," adding: "Without the P-40's they produce by day and night, we might have failed."

15,000,000 in War Work

Bern, Switzerland, June 17 (AP)—Fifteen million German women now are engaged in war work, 9,400,000 of them in various kinds of compulsory service, an announcement in Berlin said today. Six million are married and 2,500,000 have children who are cared for during the day in Nazi party institutions. Beginning June 1, women took over many police duties. A neutral dispatch from Berlin said most of the women workers "are badly affected" by war service and "sometimes are more sullen than polite."

Civil War Veterans

Utica, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—Seven Civil War veterans ranging in age from 91 to 100 are in attendance at the 76th annual State Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Oldest is James A. Hard, Rochester, who served with the 32nd New York Volunteer Infantry and recalls vividly many of the early battles. Syracuse was chosen for the 1943 convention. More than 1,000 delegates of various Civil War organizations also are in session.

Brazil Has No Future As Rubber Center

Salt Lake City, June 17 (AP)—Brazil has no future as a rubber producing center, present war needs and future development notwithstanding, in the opinion of Dr. A. A. Bitancourt, director of the biological institute of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Dr. Bitancourt is attending the Pacific division meeting of the American Association for the advancement of science. He is scheduled to speak on citrus fruit diseases.

The development of synthetic rubber in the United States, he said in an interview, will outstrip anything Brazil could hope to do in the way of natural rubber production.

In addition, he pointed out, because of the small population in the rubber producing areas of Brazil, there is no cheap labor supply as in the densely populated Malay states and Netherlands East Indies.

Over the next 12 days there are at least a dozen good pieces of rubber scrap you can probably find in your kitchen. For instance—an apron, gloves, dish scrubber, sink plug, faucet spray, pre-jar rings, soap dish, drain board mat, dish drainer, door wedge and an ice cube

When Will Nazis Strike, Where Is Their Air Force?

These Two Questions Are Uppermost in Minds of Most Observers of World War

By BILL BONI
(Wide World Military Editor)

New York, June 18—As the Russian-German war nears the end of its first year, two questions are uppermost in the minds of most observers:

When will the Nazis strike with the full weight of their offensive, which has been threatened since early spring?

Where is the bulk of the Nazi air force?

It is quite possible that the answers to these two questions are bound up together. That the answer to the second automatically will supply the reply to the first.

The records of Nazi military conquest since September, 1939, prove without room for argument that the high command makes no major military undertaking without full-scale support from the air force.

It was so in Poland, in Norway, in the low countries and France, in the Balkans—and it was so on June 22, 1941, when the Nazi armies began their devastating sweep into Russia which did not halt until it had been met by the combined force of the powerful Soviet counter-offensive and the numbing cold of the Russian winter.

Yet since the late fall of 1941 the German air force has not been engaged in any mass operations as the allies have come to know them.

True, the Nazis have had to spread their air strength over many fronts: To guard against British raids in the west (but lately with surprisingly weak forces); to aid the Italians over the Mediterranean and Libya (there have been signs the proportion of Nazi aircraft in these operations was reduced considerably in recent months); to support their troops on the vast Russian front (even here there have been few attacks in force, and this week's Nazi-announced raid on Moscow as the first on the capital for many weeks).

Expert opinion attributes the Germans' comparatively minor air activity to two reasons: The Nazis have to conserve their supplies of lubricating oil for their planes; the air force therefore will not be thrown into any major operation, with its additional heavy drain on airman and equipment, until Hitler has decided where the army will strike its next blow.

From those points you can build up this sequence:

The German air force cannot afford to waste fuel.

If it is called on for action in which large stocks of fuel are to be used, the natural goal of such an action would be acquisition of fresh supplies.

The most logical point of major air attack, therefore, is in support of the long-awaited drive for Russia's Caucasian oil fields.

Air Force Strengthened

There is little reason to believe that German's air force has been weakened to any appreciable extent in recent months. There is ample justification for the belief that, both in machines and in the men to fly and repair them, it has been strengthened considerably.

Furthermore, with their interior lines of communications, the Nazis can concentrate their air force in any chosen sector within the space of a few days. They can do so, that is, at least in theory.

There are at least three developments of recent weeks which effectively may prevent them from doing so:

The R.A.F.'s mass bombing attacks in Germany, which, if resumed, likely to be resumed the moment the weather clears and to have the further support of the U. S. Army Air Forces squadrons now stationed in Britain.

The A.A.F.'s new-sprung activity in the Mediterranean, in cooperation with the R.A.F., and against Nazi bases on the Black Sea (presumed to have been, though no one has said so, the target of the consolidated B-24's which came down in neutral Turkey).

The British-United States pledge to work for a second front against Germany in 1942, and with it the mounting flow of British and U. S. supplies to Russia.

Cologne and Essen were, according to British accounts, virtually undefended by fighters when the R.A.F. swarmed over with its hundreds and hundreds of bombing planes.

If the British with U. S. aid are able to continue such attacks, however, the Nazis almost surely will have to strengthen their aerial defenses, both to protect vital industries and to answer the clamor for protection bound to arise from bombed-out householders even in Hitlerite Germany.

Germany's Black Sea bases, where lately she is understood to have been assembling submarines, are well within the range of B-24's operating from bases in Syria or even in Egypt. Thus the U. S. bombers which landed in Turkey may be only the forerunner of bigger squadrons which will force a further diversion of Nazi air strength.

The R.A.F. has been more than Flying the Burma Airway!

ROUTE OF THE NEW BURMA ROAD—The Japanese finally cut the long overland Burma Road, but they haven't stopped the flow of supplies to China. American pilots are flying this arduous route from India to Chungking in transport planes loaded with ammunition, guns and supplies for the fighting Chinese.

By PRESTON GROVER
(Wide World Features)

New Delhi—An American pilot who flew planes five years for Northwest Airline says that nothing he encountered over the Dakotas or Rockies compares with the hazards of flying supplies to China.

He is Lieutenant Joseph A. McKeown of Route 1, Minneapolis, Minn. This slender, black-haired pilot with 13 years of flying experience was one of the American Airlines pilots who was chosen to help put supplies through to China in spite of loss of the Burma Road.

On their most recent flight they plotted a course which allowed them a slender margin of safety if they could climb to 17,000 feet while threading through a mountain pass. Believing they could get through, they took off.

Storm in the Mountains

They took advantage of cloud cover, crossed Burma without detection by Japanese, then headed for the mountain pass. Instead of the clear weather they expected, however, a storm closed in and they were forced to fly blind. Instrument flying is no problem to an American airline pilot, but also is it very easy, without radio beacons, to get many miles off course. That's dangerous when you're flying in the vicinity of mountain peaks twenty-three thousand feet high, as McKeown and Cupp were.

Soon they found that they were unable to climb over 16,000 feet because of icing. But they decided to push on even though they had only a few feet of clearance over the highest point in the pass.

Then a Clearing

For more than 90 minutes they flew blind through storms and failed to sight a landmark by which they could orient themselves. Then, when they were beginning to get worried, the clouds broke, they got their bearings and flew on to their destination.

Coming back was duck soup. Flying empty, they had a higher ceiling to get through the pass. Again they had to fly blind, but that didn't bother them.

"That meant we weren't likely to meet any Japanese planes," said McKeown, "and that's the important thing with cargo planes."

McKeown has a wife and five-year-old son Anthony in Minneapolis.

Texas, a graduate of Texas Tech and an Army-trained flier. Together they have lifted their huge freight planes off airfields in northeast India, dodged Japanese planes and breezed through canyons of some of the world's highest mountains.

Bergen Tops List Of 'Brands' Pay

Comedian's Income Almost Four Times That Given to Firm's President

Philadelphia, June 18 (AP)—Edgar Bergen, whose lively "dummy" friend, Charley McCarthy, has been pleading for an increase in a 75 cents a week allowance, was paid $282,000 for his radio work in 1941 by Standard Brands, Inc.

Bergen's income was almost four times the payment made by the company to its former president and present chairman, Thomas L. Smith, who received $75,000, additional annual reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission revealed today.

Among other Standard Brand payments were Paul W. Fleischmann, vice-president, $60,000; Hugo Oswald, secretary, treasurer and director, $60,000; Ludwig Baer, commission merchant, Fleischman Malting Company, $64,987; Paul B. Benton, commission merchant, Fleischman Company, $36,526; Ray Noble and orchestra, $32,000.

Many of the late reports showed executives of firms now engaged in war production were given substantial increases last year. Included in this group were Charles Balough, president, treasurer, general manager of the Hercules Motor Corporation, Canton, Ohio, who received $60,000, including $36,000 as bonus or share in profits, a $21,000 increase over his 1940 income, and Parker F. Williams, president of the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Corporation, who jumped from $21,034 in 1940 to $46,390 last year.

Pittsburgh Steel Foundry also paid J. S. Dittich, sales agent, $51,774, compared with $24,232 in 1940, and Hercules Motor also paid John C. Keplinger $25,000, a boost of $6,000 over 1940, and M. C. Kuiper, vice-president in charge of production, $17,999.

United Engineering and Foundry Company paid George T. Ladd, president and director, $74,630, an increase of $5,565, and F. C. Biggert, Jr., vice-president and director, $51,428, a boost of $4,920.

Room Tax Protested

Proposed taxes on hotel rooms and ceilings on luxury meals is under the sharp protest of London hotels. Any further restrictions will put the hotel industry out of business, the hotel association charges, as already 90 per cent are not paying dividends.

Training Within Industry Division Helps Employees

More than 150 Empire State war factories from Buffalo to New York city faced with a serious shortage of skilled workers have been able to shorten the breaking-in period for new employees by 40 to 75 per cent through the aid of the Training-Within-Industry division of the War Manpower Commission, D. J. Hoose and Sterling W. Mudge, state representatives of the program declared yesterday.

Created to help war factories develop effective in-plant training methods and insure a continuous flow of supervisors, foremen, "lead men" and skilled workers to speed production, T. W. I. has in the past nine months alone trained 3,300 key men and women in industries ranging from aviation to shirtmaking in this state.

"T. W. I. is not an employment agency, nor does it set up vocational schools for teaching unskilled workers a trade. It does, however, provide war industries with many direct aids in the task of on-the-job training. One of these aids is the highly efficient 10 hour Job-Instructor Training course which in many cases has reduced the breaking-in period for new workers by 50 per cent," declared Mr. Hoose.

"In New York state 152 companies employing more than 145,000 workers, are now utilizing T. W. I.'s simplified training methods to help increase their war production. They include manufacturers of aircraft, ships, guns, sight-seeing mechanism, tools, radio, electrical equipment, foods, uniforms, munitions, marine hardware, and numerous other items for the armed forces."

Biggest portion of T. W. I. activities deals with the problem of Job-Instructor Training; instructing foremen and "lead" men how to teach new workers efficiently. So successful has this course of instruction been, that has already "processed" 380 of its Long Island aircraft factory supervisors workers through J. I. T. classes and plans to have 1,000 trained when its new assembly plant soon swings into full production.

J. I. T. trainers are enlisted from the personnel staffs of large companies with long records of experience in on-the-job training. In five 2-hour sessions conducted on the war plants premises foremen and "lead" men in groups of 10 to 12, are taught the four fundamental steps which American industrial experience has shown are basic for breaking in a worker on any new job.

T. W. I. offers several other services to war-industry management for increasing in-plant training. Field men can be called in to give an appraisal of a factory's in-plant training methods. Mr. Hoose told of a Hudson valley clothing manufacturer who received an army contract to make uniforms. It meant increasing his employees from 100 to 600 and teaching them how to work with army specifications. T. W. I. field men analyzed the plant's production setup; available labor supply; contract schedule of delivery, and how expansion of the skilled labor force could be achieved.

Another type of service consists of an industry-wide survey involving a number of plants. A few months ago a critical shortage of precision lens grinders and polishers was hampering war production. T. W. I. field men consulted with industry management in 12 different plants to determine the extent and severity of the shortage. And soon, declared Mr. Hoose, "we were able to develop specific recommendations for on-the-job training that opened the bottleneck."

Often a followup survey is made in plants where changed operating conditions and schedules so require. Mr. Hoose pointed out, "This was done with a firm manufacturing aviation motor parts, where new orders resulted in tripling the company's production quotas, requiring an expansion to three full shifts. The labor force was increased from 800 to 2,100.

New York offices of T. W. I. are located at 11 W. 42nd street, and field men are attached to the War Production Board branches in Buffalo, Syracuse and Albany.

Curtin's Attitude Does Little to Boost Optimism

Even in Libya, Russia Forces Have Been in Worse Straits Than at Present

By De WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The violence of the fighting in the various theatres of combat, as the Axis strains to get its war-machine into top speed for a killing, is producing the usual heavy fluctuations of emotion among the Allied peoples, and for no vital reason there has been a fair amount of gloom knocking about the last day or two.

Without possible doubt we're going to get a lot more of the sweat and blood and tears that British Prime Minister Churchill promised long ago, but there are no present signs that we shall see anything worse than the war already has produced. After all, the collapse of France and Belgium, the crimson sands of Dunkerque, the sweep of the Hun forces across the Russian steppes last summer, and Pearl Harbor were tough spots.

The Allies are encountering some setbacks, but from my observation post the conflict has appeared to be moving along fairly well for our side. We've taken some hard knocks and handed out some but, after all, war is that way, you know. Thus it was with some concern that one read Premier Curtin's gloomy warning to Australians yesterday.

Mr. Curtin said that the news from Libya wasn't good and that the Russian situation held dangers for the Allied cause. "Australia is irrevocably linked with the wars in Libya and Russia," he continued, and added that the fall of Australia, a possibility always to be remembered, would open the way for a Japanese attack on Hawaii and the North American continent. This was particularly disturbing since a fortnight earlier the premier declared:

"I defy the enemy to land large forces in Australia. The enemy is being desperately driven to shortages in essential supplies which show themselves more directly in the forces of the Axis powers than in the case with the forces of the Allied nations. x x x and thus time runs against the Axis in every theatre."

What Could Have Happened?

What could have happened in those two weeks to alter the premier's viewpoint so radically? Well, in that time we've knocked the daylight out of the Japs at Midway and have added to this victory in the Aleutians. In fact in these engagements we inflicted some heavy damage that there's some question whether the Nipponese have enough naval strength left to stage a major offensive by sea.

In that fortnight the Russians have withstood all Nazi efforts to get their overdue offensive started. The great Soviet naval base of Sevastopol has held in the face of fierce attacks, and today the German dead are piled high before the defenses. The massed Hitlerian assaults in the Kharkov sector at the gateway to the Caucasus have failed to do more than dent the Bolshevik line there—and the Reds are showing the strength to counterattack—stout fellows!

It's true that the news from Libya isn't good. Nazi Marshal Rommel—one of the great generals of this war—has staged a spectacular offensive which today is threatening the important British position at the port of Tobruk. However, the Allied forces have been in much worse position in Libya before this. Tobruk has been in Axis hands, and even if it should fall now, it's not a matter of despair.

Rommel's gains appear due in large degree to numerical superiority in tanks. However, the British position may be eased by tank reinforcements which they reportedly received as the result of the sensational dash of the big convoy to Tobruk this week.

The movement of this convoy and another to Malta precipitated a great air-sea battle in which, by the way, Yankee airmen played a magnificent part. The damage suffered by the British is admitted to be "considerable, although Axis claims are officially declared to be fantastic. The Italian fleet took another terrific beating, losing one cruiser and two destroyers and six other warships, including two battleships, damaged.

While the British have suffered losses, to me the important thing is that they had the strength and courage to ram the noses of their convoys into such a powerful Axis position.

There undoubtedly are many grave dangers ahead of us, and the crisis calls for every ounce of effort we can give, but taking the situation as a whole there's nothing to cause despair. Personally I like the line given to the French yesterday by old Marshal Petain:

"I do not lose faith."

'Claudia' to Be Playhouse Opener

Comedy by John Golden to Start Season

Following the assembling of the cast at The Vileta in Byrdcliffe last Sunday, rehearsals were begun Monday morning for the presentation of the comedy "Claudia," John Golden's Broadway success of last season, as the opening play at The Woodstock Playhouse, June 25.

For his production of "Claudia" Managing Director Robert Elwyn has assigned one of the leading roles to Miss Viola Roache, who will be making her initial appearance in Woodstock. Miss Roache is notable for having played with in the last five years in stage versions of three of the greatest novels ever written by women, "Fanny Hill," "The Vicar of Wakefield," and "The Wives of Men."

Though born in England where she began acting, Miss Roache has spent most of her career on the American stage. Her recent engagements include "The Man from Cairo" in which she was featured with Joe Buloff; "I Am My Youth" produced by Alfred de Laage, Jr.; during the past season with Cornelia Otis Skinner in "Theatre" and in "Punch and Judy" with Jane Cowl. Also on tour with Katherine Hepburn in "The Philadelphia Story."

Another leading role in "Claudia" will be played by Joen Arliss who acquired a large following of fans during her several appearances at The Playhouse last season. During the winter Miss Arliss appeared with Henry Hull in "Play With Fire" and doubled for Priscilla Lane in "Saboteur."

The leading male role in "Claudia" will be played by Johnny Heath who is making his initial appearance in Woodstock. Mr. Heath is a west coast product and studied at the Pasadena Playhouse where his fellow students were Victor Mature, Dana Andrews and William Holden. He starred in two plays for Producer Al Woods and toured the west coast for 20 weeks in "Night Must Fall."

Others in the cast of "Claudia" include such well known Playhouse favorites as Mai Farrell, Harry Young, Philipa Bevan, Ivan Triesault, and Helen Harmon.

Glider Pick-up System Gratifies Army Air Forces

Picking up gliders from the ground by an airplane flying at more than 100 miles per hour has been successfully demonstrated at the Army Air Forces Materiel Center, Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, it was announced today by the War Department.

High Army Air Force officers who witnessed and participated in the glider pick-up demonstration flights pronounced them highly successful and indicated that the system may be utilized to speed up the training program for glider pilots recently inaugurated by the Army Air Forces.

Using this pick-up system, training gliders can be picked up from a stationary position on the ground by a plane in flight and towed until they gain sufficient altitude to be released by the glider pilot. The airplane then circles and makes another pick-up of a waiting glider. In this way, gliders can be picked up at the rate of about one every three minutes.

The equipment demonstrated at Wright Field was designed for picking up light training gliders and the demonstrations so far have been limited to gliders of this type.

The inauguration of the non-stop glider pick-up system will greatly simplify and speed up an important phase of the new program of training glider pilots urgently needed by the Army Air Forces by eliminating the need for an airplane to take off every time a glider is taken aloft for a training flight.

The glider used in the Wright Field demonstrations was an XTG-3, and the pick-ups were made by a Stinson light monoplane. In practice pick-ups preceding the demonstrations, a Piper Cub airplane with the propeller removed was used in place of a glider.

At the controls of the glider during the first non-stop pick-up was Colonel F. R. Dent, Air Corps, Chief of the Experimental Glider Unit at Wright Field, who expressed himself as being entirely satisfied with its operation.

Succeeding pick-up flights were made by several young flying officers of the Glider Unit, among them Second Lieutenant Chester H. Decker, one of the only four American possessors of the Golden "C" certificate of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. The Golden "C" is awarded to glider and soaring pilots who have met a number of rigid requirements, among them the piloting of a glider to an altitude of about 10,000 feet and having soared a distance of at least 200 miles.

Under the pick-up system the glider is placed about 200 feet in back of two uprights, between which a tow-line is placed. Inside the cabin of the airplane which is making the pick-up is a revolving reel, equipped with a built-in brake which carries a tow line cable and the grapple-hook.

The tow plane comes in and as it approaches the pick-up ground station, the pilot levels off much in the same manner as he would in making a landing, except that his speed is greater, anywhere from 95 to 120 miles an hour. He lowers the pick-up arm and the hook at the end catches the suspended tow-line. At the moment of contact, with the airplane from 12 to 14 feet from the ground, the cable reel inside the plane is permitted to spin freely to pay out additional tow-cable to cushion the initial load imposed by the dead-weight of the glider on the ground. Some of the shock is also taken up by the tow-line itself which is made of nylon to give maximum strength with great resilience.

Gradually the reel-brake is applied, the glider accelerates smoothly, and by the time the speeding tow-plane has leveled off, the glider is air-borne. Then the brake is fully locked and the glider is in full tow. When the glider has gained sufficient altitude the glider pilot cuts himself loose. If at any time while the glider is in tow the acceleration exceeds 1G, an automatic shock absorber goes into action.

With further developments of this launching technique, using multi-engine airplanes as tow-planes, and employing heavier reels, two-cables and brakes, its application to the Army Air Force's heaviest transport gliders is contemplated. Similarly, the system may eventually be adapted to the pick-up of large commercial freight and passenger glider trains.

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, June 17—A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kirk. When it was three days old it was taken to the Benedictine Hospital where a very delicate operation was performed for intestinal trouble.

W. Fredericks and Mr. Collins of Philadelphia are at Mr. Frederick's cottage.

Mrs. W. McGrath, Jr., of Florida spent a few days here.

Joseph Kauntzman is ill of German measles.

Miss Kniffen intermediate teacher closed school Thursday. The children took their lunch. After luncheon they were treated to ice cream and cake.

The Villa Maria is now open for the season.

F. Simmons and family have moved to Kingston. Mr. Simmons is an engineer.

Mrs. W. Malloy, Jr., and son, will move to Poughkeepsie where Mr. Malloy is stationed.

Mrs. Uriah Van Kleeck who went berrying on one of the hot days last week was overcome with the heat. When she did not return a party went to look for her and found her lying under an apple tree. Dr. Quinn attended her. She is much improved at this writing.

Earl Lane, Jr. is assisting at the Demming garage.

Bouse Bennett and family of Bristol, Conn., visited his people over the week-end.

Warren Simmons of Kingston visited friends over the week-end returning to Kingston by train Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. O'Donnell was taken to the Benedictine Hospital, Sunday.

What It Means

Finland in the Middle

By HERMAN ALLEN

Much against the pleadings of the U. S. state department, Finland threw in with the Germans last fall to get revenge against Russia. Things were going well for the Nazis then, and the Finns thought the campaign would be a breeze.

But it hasn't worked out that way, and Finland is on a serious spot. Here's the way a reliable diplomatic contact analyzes Finland's plight:

Much as the Finns might like to shake the Nazis, they seem to be stuck with them. The Nazis have two big clubs over Finland—food and Russia.

Finnish agriculture has gone to pot. Not only are thousands of Finnish farmers serving at the front, but crops were bad last year and don't look good this year. Only about half the plowing was completed last fall; then there was an early thaw this spring followed by a killing cold spell. Sweden, which has been supplying part of Finland's wants, has a poor crop outlook, too.

Germany has been making up part of the lack in Finnish grain and dairy products by shipping in part of the booty she has taken from the Balkans, western Europe and Scandinavia. But the booty came from the looted nations' reserves and won't hold out much longer. And Hitler, in a recent speech, spoke of another winter campaign.

Meager as the food supply is, it's still a powerful persuader, but the real weapon the Germans hold is the Finns' fear of Russia.

"That," said this diplomatic source, "is what is keeping them awake nights. Without German support, Finland couldn't hope to withstand Russia for long, especially with Russia receiving heavy supplies from America and Britain."

Germany might try to occupy Finland if the Finns pull out of the war, but it's doubtful they could get there before the Russians. Actually, the Germans need Finnish help badly. A third of the Russian front, paralleling the vital Murmansk-Moscow railroad, over which flow American supplies, faces Finland, and Secretary Hull described Hitler's recent visit to Baron Mannerheim as "a desperate attempt to induce Finland to make further contributions to the Axis military campaign."

Finland may be damned for the present if she does abandon Germany, but she's doubly damned in the long run if she doesn't. When the United Nations beat Hitler, Finland must certainly go tumbling after in short order. And she can hardly expect very generous treatment at the peace table, especially where Russia is concerned, if she has stuck to Germany to the bitter end. Even sooner than that, Finland may find herself invaded by British troops from the north—possibly even by American troops if the U. S. should declare war on her. It is coming home to Helsinki now that the U. S. state department knew what it was talking about when it tried to keep the Finns away from Germany.

It is not likely, this diplomatic source said, that Finland would actually join up with the United Nations if she abandoned Germany. The Finns may not be warm pro-Nazis, but they are violently anti-Russian.

Whatever happens, Finland has little to look forward to. Even if she quits the Nazis, she won't come to the peace table with such clean hands as Norway or Greece, who have brilliant anti-Nazi records from the very start.

Violin Bares Tragedy

Search for a violin 300 years old ended in Buenos Aires, Argentina, when the police discovered that its borrower had died suddenly. Gregorio Casella, of Castelar, the owner, reported the violin, worth $3,000, missing because Pedro Miramonte, a noted violinist, did not return it on the day promised, and had left Castelar. The police learned that Miramonte, about the time he was supposed to return the violin, was taken ill in Buenos Aires and died soon afterwards. Among fellow artists Miramonte was well known for his many charitable acts.

Your Food—and Nutrition

"Stay slim by eating the right foods," say nutrition experts. Lean meat, combined with fresh vegetables, in a crisp and tempting salad, is a fine balance of food, for the meat protein, minerals and certain vitamins, and the vegetables supply other vitamins, as well as other food essentials. Meat also gives a "staying quality" to a meal. For those on a reducing diet, lemon juice or vinegar salad dressing should be used in preference to mayonnaise or olive oil.

A dainty but substantial main dish for a summer meal is a meat salad. Whether for a party or a family meal, this combination of meat and vegetables is tempting and satisfying. It supplies needed food elements in a most appetizing form.

Veal is a favorite meat to use in salad because of its delicate flavor. An economy cut of veal may be purchased for this purpose, or the left-over portion of a veal roast may be used. This is a good way to use left-overs, for even a small amount can be combined to good advantage with lettuce, celery, cucumber or other fresh vegetable you may prefer to have on hand.

Daintiness in serving adds to the appeal of a meat salad. Have the meat cut into even cubes, and the other ingredients into uniform pieces. To enhance the flavor, the meat cubes may be placed in a marinade of oil and vinegar or French dressing for sometime before the salad is made.

Here are suggestions for dainty and substantial salads, to perk up the appetites on a warm day.

Veal and Bacon Salad

3 cups cold cooked veal, diced
1/2 cup cooked bacon, finely cut
1 cup celery, cut in 1/2 inch pieces
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 small tomatoes
Salt and pepper
Sweet gherkins

Mix the diced cold cooked veal and the finely cut bacon. Combine with celery and mayonnaise and chill. Place a small tomato in a cup of crisp lettuce leaves. Cut the tomato down into several sections so that it will open like a flower. Place a mound of the salad mixture on a tomato and top with mayonnaise. Garnish the side with radishes and sweet gherkin sliced and spread in fan shape.

Meat and Cucumber Salad

2 cups cooked meat
1 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup chopped cucumber
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
Salt and pepper
Salad dressing

Have cooked veal cut into 1/2 inch cubes. Marinate in French dressing, if desired. Chill. Just before serving toss together diced veal, sliced celery, chopped cucumber and diced green pepper. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with salad dressing. Serve in lettuce cups. Sprinkle with paprika or garnish with pimiento.

Spying in Germany—It's a Tough Job Now

who are willing to sell vital information for a price.

What kind of information do these humble spies uncover? Usually it is of the most unromantic nature.

One individual whom this writer has reason to suspect is doing nothing more exciting than counting coal trains. He lives near an important railway line over which coal is transported from Germany to Italy. Italian industry is completely dependent on Germany for coal. And if the United Nations knew approximately how much coal Italy is getting they could make a pretty shrewd guess as to the capacities of Italian armament and munitions industries.

Railroads Betray Secrets

Watching the German transportation system betrays other war secrets. We were informed in Berlin, although we could not be quite sure, that similar humble spying on railways first revealed to the United Nations that the shipyards of Danzig started assembling submarines after increasingly heavy British raids disturbed building operations at Kiel and other western German ports.

Constant shipment of war materials eastward first led to the suspicion that Germany was withdrawing some of its industry from the Rhine valley. Destructive British raids on Rostock and Luebeck have been the answer.

The professional spy inside Germany sets himself up as a clearing agent for a lot of little tipsters. He puts the dabs together, reads newspapers with particular attention to what might be concealed between the lines, and listens to the speeches. How he gets the report out of the country is his own business which, at the moment, shouldn't be betrayed.

To the suspicious German official almost every foreigner is a spy. And news correspondents particularly were regarded dubiously.

Curious in this respect was the high moral attitude taken by the United States embassy in Berlin before Hitler extended the war to the western hemisphere. The embassy gave no military information to any British agency.

Despite the stringent regulations it's fairly easy to obtain bits of important military information in Germany.

But the spy's job is twofold. First he must get his facts. Then, equally important, he must get them out of the country and to their destination promptly.

How 3 Warships Escaped

A pat example of how the spy service of Germany's enemies lately did half its job, but was outwitted in the performance of the second half, is presented by the escape of the battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst and the cruiser Eugen from Brest.

Brest is as full of spies, amateur and professional, as any European city. When the three German men-of-war steamed from port perhaps hundreds of Frenchmen knew that the long awaited escape through the tight English channel was probably being undertaken. In evening hours the news spread through the city and even to other French communities.

But the spy services bogged down in delivering that news to England.

The maneuver of bringing home those three warships was more than a first rate military accomplishment. It was preceded by weeks of patient work by the counter-espionage service. Civil a match for the Italians alone in the central Mediterranean area. If the British now are to be reinforced by American contingents, this will mean that the Germans will have to send more planes into this theatre as well.

Finally, the Russians themselves have been bolstered in past months as U. S. and British-made equipment was rushed in from north and south. The British have delivered considerable numbers of their Hurricane fighters, while at least one Soviet squadron is flying American-made biplanes.

The Russians are, per custom, saying very little. This in itself might be an indication that, when the German air force is called upon to strike in force, the Russians will have a few surprises in store.

Suspended Sentence

Putnam, Conn., June 17 (AP)—John A. Dodge, 16, who engaged in a playful gun duel that resulted fatally for his friend, Norman C. Basso, also 16, was given a suspended sentence in the Reformatory today on a plea of guilty to a charge of manslaughter. Coroner Louis A. Weisard, in finding Dodge criminally responsible, said that the boys, both of Woodstock, had frequently fired at each other in fun with 22 rifles as a "wild west" stunt and also had shot at parked motorists.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

May Sales Less

Washington, June 17 (AP)—The census bureau said today that May sales of independent retailers were 2 per cent less than in April and 4 per cent less than in May of last year. This was the first time in 42 months that the sales have been less in any one month than in the corresponding month of the previous year. It was understood that some of this decline represents decreased sales of gasoline due to rationing in the east and to smaller sales of consumer articles no longer being made, or being made in smaller quantities in order to conserve metals and other materials for war industry.

Gas Stocks Drop

New York, June 17 (AP)—Gasoline stocks in the United States dropped another 1,311,000 barrels in the week ended June 13 the thirteenth weekly decline, the American Petroleum Institute announced today. The total at the end of the period was 91,994,000 barrels, compared with 93,305,000 in the preceding week and 91,431,000 barrels in the same week a year ago.

ONLY UNIONS FIX WAGES

Only trade unions are now legally entitled to negotiate for the fixing of wages or conditions of work in Eire. The Dublin Government hoped smaller unions would merge into one, but this was not achieved. For the right to negotiate each union pays $4,000.

The plutocratic looking man, in a fur-lined overcoat, and sporting a big cigar, walked his lordly way down the street.

"He," said the local cynic, "is one of the few men who have got rich from writing poetry. And he wrote for only six months."

"What?" said the poet. "How the devil did he do that?"

"He wrote love sonnets to a rich and ancient widow."

About the time of the jubilee of the widowed Queen Victoria two old Scotswomen were overheard on a London street in the following conversation:

"Can you tell me, wumman," said one, "what it is they call a jubilee?"

"Well, it's this," replied the other. "When folks has been married 25 years that's a silver wedding, and when they have been married 50 years that's a golden wedding, but if the man's dead then it's a jubilee."

Committees Named For Annual Bazaar

At a meeting Monday at the home of Miss Margaret Rising in Barclay Heights, Saugerties, plans were formulated for the annual bazaar of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church in Saugerties. The two-day affair will be held August 12 and 13 this year with Col. Girard L. McEntee as general chairman.

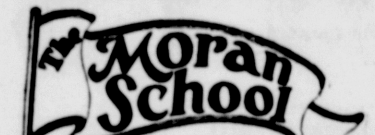

Mrs. John T. Washburn, who has successfully managed the bazaar for the past five years, asked to be relieved of the responsibilities this time and Col. McEntee was chosen to head the general committee. The Rev. William T. Renison, rector, presided at the meeting and suggested that each committee chairman be responsible for his committee this year and in so doing lighten the burdens of the chairmanship.

Col. McEntee has named the following people for the general committee: Supper, Miss Margaret Rising and Mrs. John Perkins; booths, Mrs. John T. Washburn; arcade, John Martino; tickets, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sylvan; publicity, George E. DuBois; posters, Clifford Cashdollar; entertainment, Richard F. Overbagh, George H. Knight and Mrs. Kenneth Faxon; children's show, Mrs. Samuel J. Adams; flower shop, Miss Isabel Overbagh; transportation, Roy Myers; booth construction, Everett Blanchard; grounds, Edward Martin; hospitality, John T. Washburn, Richard F. Overbagh, John Perkins; treasurer, Mrs. Ernest Cole.

To Release Flow Of LIVER BILE

Do This Every Morning for 30 Days Take a bottle of Kruschen Salts at night. Start right in tomorrow morning and take as much as will lie on a dime in a glass of water (hot or cold) half an hour before breakfast or in your morning cup of tea or coffee and keep this up for 30 days. Kruschen taken this way helps relieve such symptoms as sick headaches, bowel sluggishness and so-called bilious digestion when due to insufficient flow of bile from the gall-bladder. You can get Kruschen, a famous English formula made in the U.S.A., at Bonzart Pharmacy or any drug store. You must be satisfied or money back.

CONSTITUTION SUFFERERS Note: For an occasional cathartic or purgative, to relieve occasional constipation, we believe there is nothing better than quick-acting Kruschen in larger doses—try it according to directions on the bottle.—Adv.

Padwa Will Open Gallery Evening Series

On Monday evening, June 29, the Woodstock Artist's Association will open its series of eight gallery evenings with a musical program arranged by Vladimir Padwa.

This evening and the Monday evenings to follow offer a rare opportunity for subscribing members and their guests to enjoy some of the unusual and outstanding talent of Woodstock. Local artists, musicians, writers and actors will be the contributors. Each in his turn is planning an evening which will maintain a high cultural standard.

There will be musical evenings, evenings of slides and art discussions and literary evenings. Experimental movies will be another feature and later in the season an absorbing theatre program will be given.

To insure the informal note of these gallery evenings, one Monday night will be set aside for a basket picnic at the gallery with general singing and impromptu entertainment by the artists.

This is an experimental program that the Artist's Association offers and combines the novel idea of cultural pursuits with community spirit.

Lodge Holds Dinner Honors Members

The Zephaniah Lodge No. 131 of B'nai B'rith held its first dinner-meeting Tuesday evening, June 16, at the Esopus Lake Hotel. Also present at this meeting were members of the AZA and the B'nai B'rith girls.

Committee reports were presented by the chairman of the various committees, and members learned that the War Service Committee has completed plans for providing service flags for each of the three Kingston congregations. It was also learned that of the 135 blood donors to the Kingston Blood Bank, 22 were given by members or friends of Zephaniah Lodge. An appeal was made for many more members to contribute to this patriotic cause. The AZA held a book dance recently. The proceeds (books) were given to the armed forces.

Herman J. Eaton, president of the B'nai B'rith lodge, presented B'nai B'rith pins to newly elected members. It was also Mr. Eaton's privilege to present to Arthur Ewig the "Court of Honor Award" given to the individual rendering the most service to the lodge and community as a whole. A $25 Defense Bond was awarded to D. Van Buren of the Apollo Magneto Works.

Following the meeting, movies were shown picturing the military life of General Douglas MacArthur, and authentic action pictures of Bataan and the Philippine Islands.

Miss Hession Honored At Faculty Tea

On Wednesday afternoon, June 17, a tea was held in the library of School No. 5 in honor of Miss Ella Hession, who has tendered her resignation after successful years of teaching. Brief speeches were made by Superintendent Arthur J. Laidlaw, Alfred Schmid, Col. Frank L. Meagher and Raymond Van Valkenburgh. Miss Hession was commended and congratulated for the splendid work she has done and she was presented with a wrist watch.

Other guests in addition to the faculty included Miss Claire Ostrander, Miss Ruth Glendinning and Miss Kathleen Shurter. The tea table was beautifully arranged with a center piece of red, white and blue garden flowers. Miss R. Miriam Halloran and Mrs. Jane K. Edinger presided at the tea table. Arrangements were made by Miss Florence Mulhern.

Miss Gallagher Honored

Wednesday evening, June 10, Mrs. Francis Gallagher of 244 Foxhall avenue entertained at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Loretta Gallagher whose approaching marriage to Henry Peskie will soon take place. The room was attractively decorated in pink and white. The centerpiece was a large bell with small bells encircling it from which the guest of honor untied her many gifts. At 12 o'clock a luncheon was served. Those attending were the Misses Helen Gallagher, Carolyn Weber, Helen Storm, Marie Reilly, Margaret Reilly, Margaret Murphy, Nellie Dunn, Lauretta Dunn, Mrs. Joseph Gallagher, Mrs. James Gallagher, Mrs. Lester Finch, Mrs. Joseph McCann, Mrs. William Connors, Mrs. Edward Hinkley, Mrs. May Zabel, Mrs. Edward Wisneski, Mrs. John Rice, Mrs. William Gallagher was unable to attend but sent a gift.

FATHER'S DAY MESSAGE

So many of my readers have been asking me to reprint the Father's Day article I wrote last year, that although I had intended to write a much more serious angle—a tribute which should emphasize the extra burdens of work and worry and managing and sacrificing that Father in this war year is called upon to bear—I really think the lighter vein in which the piece was written when we seemed far from our own shores, will be more pleasing to Father himself than bringing him into a too strong limelight.

In greater part, then let me quote: "This coming Sunday (June 21st) will be, as you probably know, Father's Day. And as you know too though you may not have thought very much about it, Father's Day comes in for a great deal of fun-making—some kindly and some cruel. And since it really comes down to a question of bad manners, I'd like to tell you that bad manners are nearly always evidence of ignorance, and that there are few evidences of ignorance greater than the Father's Day attitude of treating it as a joke at Father's expense—forcing him to appear in a light that is not of his making.

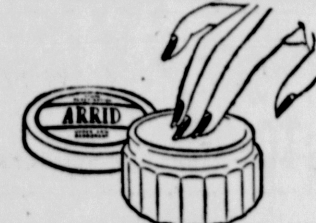

"Readers' letters tell me, though I'm glad to say I have never come upon it personally, that in many American families, Father is someone who is not as appreciated as he ought to be. Personally I can hardly imagine that this is true, because in my own experience, fathers have always been, and still are, 'tops.' "And so I for one want to enter my protest against a joke that isn't funny. I want to shout out loud to all sons and daughters, to STOP belittling Father's Day—as though it were something he thought of himself—and that, something rather to his credit. It is only fair to think of it instead as a day on which to show Father—instead of taking for granted that he knows—how deeply we love and value him."

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Model Notes." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Letters cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Hearing for Upstate Canning Industry Slated

Albany, N. Y., June 18—A hearing on "seasonal employees" in the upstate canning industry will be held by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller June 26 at 10 a. m. in Room 405, 70 Exchange street, Rochester. It was announced today by Milton O. Loysen, executive director of the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance. All interested parties—workers and employers—are invited.

Special benefit arrangements for "seasonal employees" are provided for in Section 508 of the New York State Unemployment Insurance Law. Under this section the commissioner determines seasonal industries and occupations and adjusts the earnings requirement and the duration of benefits for employees in seasonal industries who do not have other employment during the year.

The law provides that the earnings requirement and the duration of benefits shall be in the same proportion to the normal earnings requirement and benefit duration as the active season of the seasonal industry is to a full calendar year. This would result in a reduction of the eligibility requirement and a reduction of the period of potential benefit duration for workers who are classified as "seasonal employees."

The upstate canning industry is the first industry to be investigated under this provision.

U. S. Planes Take 10-1 Toll Of Japs at Coral and Midway

Navy Men Tell Of Their Rescue

Argentine Steamer Saves Pair and Their Plane From Atlantic

San Juan, Puerto Rico, June 18 (AP)—The Argentine steamer Rio Segundo back-tracked for five days—1,000 miles—to land two U. S. navy men rescued by the ship from a plane forced down in the Atlantic Ocean, the 10th naval district headquarters announced last night.

The men were Ensign J. J. Tidmarsh, Milwaukee, the pilot, and Raymond G. Green, 455 Southside avenue, Freeport, N. Y., who were on a volunteer night flight when they were forced to land.

They spent the night tossing on stormy waves and radioing their position hourly. They had no assurance their messages were heard but the next morning the Rio Segundo, bound for Buenos Aires, appeared. Ten minutes after she sighted the plane with the fliers waving from the wing she had them aboard and was hoisting the plane to the deck.

The men had high praise for the Argentine ship's hospitality.

"For two weeks everyone on the Rio Segundo from Captain Manuel Blanco down not only offered us their shirts, socks, shoes and food but insisted that we accept them," Tidmarsh said. "I have never known such kindness and generosity. And when Captain Blanco received the radio order to bring us here there wasn't a complaint, although it meant turning his ship back and retracing his course for 1,000 miles—adding 2,000 miles to his homeward journey."

The rescued men said they were given dry clothing, food, coffee and brandy as soon as they were taken aboard the Rio Segundo.

During the morning while securing the plane to the deck other planes of their squadron flew overhead. They signaled they were safe, the name of the rescue ship and her destination. But Tidmarsh said he was not sure the messages were received until he heard a newscast.

"We were almost at the Equator when the Rio Segundo received word to land us in San Juan," Tidmarsh said. "The ship's crew was making great preparations to have Green and myself meet Neptune . . . we didn't cross the Equator but the crew certainly gave us a party."

The men and the plane were landed here this week. The plane was slightly damaged when it was hoisted aboard the steamer but otherwise it suffered no harm.

Priorities Clinic Club Formed Here, Analyst at Rotary

questions as to priorities on specific articles and operations. Some of them he was able to answer but a large majority he frankly stated he could not answer without reference to his book of rules and instructions, which he had not thought it necessary to bring with him.

In reference to certain questions propounded he said that in any event all that he would be able to do would be to take the details regarding the matter and submit them to Washington for a ruling.

One of the questions that Mr. Sanger found himself unable—or perhaps unwilling—to answer, was put by a Rotarian, who asked "Who is the brains behind all this?"

The whole business of priorities, Mr. Sanger said, settled down to the fact that, due to the demands for men and materials for prosecution of the war, it had become necessary during the past 12 months to upset the entire supply and demand system that had been built up in this country during the past several hundreds of years.

"The Army and Navy comes first," he said; "the materials they demand must come out of this air." He added that in the present situation, "everything is relative in value; there is not enough of anything to go around—some must be left out."

Mr. Sanger suggested that if those present considered that it would be a service of value, representatives of the various organizations meet with him after adjournment of Rotary and make plans to set up a priorities clinic to be held in Kingston at a later date. This suggestion was approved and the conference was held.

At this projected clinic all persons who have questions to ask on matters in which priorities are involved may present their problems. Mr. Sanger will either answer the questions, or if the issue is involved will give the procedure to be followed to secure the information desired.

Presented With Pin

Preceding Mr. Sanger's talk Augustus P. Modjeska, retiring president of Rotary was presented with a diamond-studded past-president's pin. The presentation was made by William J. O'Reilly, who on July 1 will succeed Gus as president.

Messrs. Modjeska and O'Reilly leave Sunday night for Toronto, Canada, where they will represent Kingston Rotary at the convention of Rotary International, in session there June 21 to 25.

Harry Edson announced that next Wednesday the Rotary Boys Club would have a party at Williams Lake. He suggested that Rotarians who were able to go join the party following the meeting of Rotary.

ter from a culvert to a brook. However when the water was high the water was backed up by a dam on the Weiss property to the brook and then back in the ditch and over the road. He said the construction of the ditch had been the cause of the flooding of water over the road and said the engineer had made an error, water would not run up hill.

During the several terms as town superintendent Mr. Fleckenstein said he visited the scene and knew the culvert had been kept clear. He knew of no serious trouble in the locality by high water until after the brook had been changed when the improvements were made to the Weiss lands. Prior to the improvements the land had been a "wilderness" and the water flowed over it without doing damage.

There was a snow storm in the spring of 1940 and the road was plowed out. Dr. Weiss notified him of the flood conditions at the scene and he went there to investigate. He found water flowing between the snow banks on the road and the water was backed up in the ditch which Weiss had caused to be constructed. Ice was cut from the vicinity of the dam on the Weiss property and on to Ulster Heights lake to relieve the matter. Mr. Fleckenstein said he had noticed a bulge in the swimming pool prior to the flood. He said he had built pools and had observed the condition as he passed on the road.

Cleon B. Murray announced the defense's case in with the conclusion of Mr. Fleckenstein's testimony and LeRoy Lounsbury for plaintiff called Dr. Weiss in rebuttal.

Masses Are Announced

New York, June 18 (AP)—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, military vicar of the Catholic Churches in the United States, announced today that afternoon and evening Masses would be permitted for men in the U. S. armed services who could not attend morning Mass. Church officials said that this was possibly the first time such permission had been granted in this country.

Arthur Pryor, 71, Dies From Stroke

Bandmaster, Composer Was Stricken Two Days Ago at Jersey Home

ARTHUR PRYOR

West Long Branch, N. J., June 18 (AP)—Arthur Pryor, 71, noted bandmaster and composer to whose martial airs millions of Americans marched, died at 5 a. m. today in his home.

Pryor suffered a stroke two days ago. He emerged from retirement only recently to direct nightly concerts on the Asbury Park boardwalk.

His most familiar composition was "The Whistler and His Dog." "Queen Titania" was also his.

Son of a bandmaster, Samuel Pryor, Pryor rose to international renown as a trombonist in the band of John Philip Sousa. He estimated once that he played 10,000 solos while with Sousa. He founded his own band later and composed 250 marches and other tunes.

On one occasion a German Army trombonist who heard him said: "No one can play so well. It is a Yankee trick."

Roger Pryor, motion picture actor and orchestra leader, was his son. Other survivors are widow, Maud Russell Pryor; another son, Arthur, Jr., of West Long Branch, and a brother, Samuel, of Oceanport, N. J.

Soldiers at Camp Smith Report Things Going Well

Word received today from Peekskill indicates that members of the local guard unit stationed at Camp Smith for a two-week training period are getting the most out of their experience.

The local soldiers went on guard duty from 5 o'clock Tuesday until 5 o'clock Wednesday and it is reported they have been selected as guard of honor for a general who will visit camp.

Food at the camp was reported excellent and the treatment in general is said to be commendable. Some of the boys also are reported to have acquired their full summer quota of tan during their first few days of workout.

Vinson Favors Ships

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Continuing construction of battleships was described by Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) of the House naval committee today as "essential insurance" against a possibility that future carrier losses might turn sea warfare into an "old-fashioned slugging match." He offered that observation in making it clear that the day of the big battlewagon was not done, despite the havoc wrought against them recently by torpedo planes, and that the navy intended to continue work on battleships already started.

In Air Corps

PVT. JOHN GUZIAK

Private John J. Guziak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Constantine Guziak of 381 Abel street, is now stationed at Moore Field in Mission, Tex. He enlisted in the air corps on April 13, 1942, and for the past two months has been stationed in Texas. He is a graduate of School No. 1, and attended Kingston High School. At the time he enlisted, he was employed on the Island Dock shipyard.

that wiped out the great forts of Belgium, Holland and France with lightning speed in the summer of 1940 was reported making little headway in either of its latest Crimean and Ukraine offensives. Soviet front-line dispatches said hundreds of German dead and burned-out tanks littered the slopes before Sevastopol. Stockholm reports said United States-built consolidated liberator bombers were aiding Sevastopol's defenders.

While Red army headquarters declared there was no significant change overnight in the 14-day-old battle, the German high command asserted that Nazi troops had breached the system of fortifications north of Sevastopol and seized important positions before the big Crimean naval base.

On the Kharkov front, Soviet dispatches said new attacks in Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's week-old offensive were bloodily repulsed.

"The enemy left 600 men killed on the battlefield, nine damaged tanks and a large quantity of arms," a Soviet communique reported. An earlier communique listed 1,500 German casualties and 15 tanks destroyed.

On the air war front, R.A.F. bombers pounded the German U-boat nest at St. Nazaire, on the Nazi-occupied French coast, and attacked airfields and railways in northern France and Belgium.

No German night raiders appeared over Britain.

St. Nazaire is one of the main bases for far-roving German submarines preying on American coastal shipping.

Apparently beginning to feel the sting of America's rising counter-measures, the German high command for the first time noted "strong American defense" in claiming that Nazi-U-boats had sunk 12 more ships in the Caribbean Sea and seven in the Atlantic.

The news from the China fighting front again was dark. Chinese headquarters acknowledged that Japan's invasion armies now had seized all but 50 miles of the 450-mile Chekiang-Kiangsi railway which feeds supplies into the heart of China.

This offensive is an important part of the Japanese campaign to tighten their cordon around the still free regions of southern China and thereby strangle Gen. Chiang's war-time capital at Chungking.

Informed Chungking quarters said they believed Japan before the summer is over, but declared that at the moment the Japanese were concentrating on reinforcing their air strength in the China and Burma theaters.

Chinese army intelligence reports indicated that Japanese had now massed 500 planes in Burma—perhaps for an attack on India or on far southwest China—and had increased the number actually in China to 300.

The Chinese said there was no confirmation of rumors that the Japanese had shifted many planes from southeast Asia and occupied China to Manchukuo for an attack on Siberia.

However, many new airdromes were reported ready to receive eleventh-hour reinforcements for an assault on the Soviet, and the Kwantung army in Manchukuo was said to have been restored to its full strength of 33 divisions (about 600,000 troops) by the return of divisions which had been withdrawn for the Japanese drive into Malaya, the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies.

Summer Evening Services Will Be Held on Lawn

The Sunday evening worship services which have been conducted during the summer for several years will be held again this year. Because of the rationing situation the services will be on the lawn of the First Reformed Church instead of at Lawton Park. The members of the committee who are making arrangements for this year are the Rev. Arthur E. Quaden, chairman; the Rev. Maurice W. Verno, the Rev. D. Linton Doherty and the Rev. William R. Peckham. Further notices regarding the meetings will be announced later, the first service to be conducted Sunday evening, June 28.

Hoyt Seems Probable Candidate Against Fish

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18 (AP)—Endorsement of Ferdinand A. Hoyt, Beacon, as a Democratic opponent to Republican Rep. Hamilton Fish in the August primary, will be sought of the Democratic committees in the three counties comprising the 26th congressional district, it was announced today.

James Benson, Dutchess party chairman, said his committee would meet Monday night. The others will assemble soon.

The action closes the door, temporarily at least, to a move for Democratic endorsement of Augustus W. Bennett, Newburgh attorney and independent Republican who has announced he will oppose Fish.

Hoyt is a former Beacon City Judge and a referee in workmen's compensation court the past 10 years.

Benson, omitting any direct reference to Fish, opposed within his own party as well as by Democrats because of his pro-war isolationist record, asserted:

"As a lawyer and official referee in compensation, Mr. Hoyt has been in direct communication with the people in cases which require a great deal of human understanding and it is believed that he appreciates their desires and interests as a whole."

"I also believe that Mr. Hoyt is ideally fitted for the office at this particular time," during the prosecution of wartime policies and the anticipation of a just and lasting peace, because of his lack of prejudices."

Benson's statement followed conferences with Alpha R. Whiton and Thomas J. V. Cullen, Putnam and Orange county Democratic chairmen, respectively.

Masefield Is Killed

London, June 18 (AP)—Lewis Crommell Masefield, 32-year-old son of Poet Laureate John Masefield, was "killed in action far from home in recent fighting," it was announced today. He was the author of a novel "Cross and Double Cross," a social satire published in 1936, and was a former newspaperman.

Cannon Fire Is Heard

Bogota, Colombia, June 18 (AP)—Newspapers here printed reports today that cannonading was heard last night off the Colombian coast and they expressed belief that United States destroyers were battling Axis submarines.

Preliminary Will Case Is Concluded

Surrogate Directs Filing of Briefs by June 22

Continuation of the preliminary hearing in probate proceedings in the matter of the will of Mrs. Ethel Feinberg, late of Ellenville, occupied the entire time of Surrogate Harry H. Flemming's court on Wednesday. Previously an entire day had been given over to examination of the two witnesses to the will, both of whom had testified that in their opinion Mrs. Feinberg was insane when she executed the document.

At the conclusion of the hearing Wednesday Judge George F. Kaufman, special guardian for Barbara Staszewski, an adopted daughter of Mrs. Feinberg, moved to dismiss the proceedings on the ground that the proponent for the will had failed to prove facts sufficient to justify the surrogate, even in absence of opposition, in admitting the will to probate.

Surrogate Flemming reserved decision on the motion and directed that briefs be filed not later than June 22.

Witnesses placed on the stand Wednesday and examined by Judge Andrew J. Cook of counsel for Israel Harkavy, executor named in the will, were Miss Mary Manion, a teacher in the Ellenville school and her mother, Mrs. Margaret Manion who during the past year have occupied an apartment in Mrs. Feinberg's building; Samuel M. Boyce, manager of the Victory store in Ellenville, where Mrs. Feinberg came in about once a week to purchase groceries; Sidney Schleman, Middletown architect, who had drawn plans for a house Mrs. Feinberg contemplated building; Israel Harkavy, attorney of 50 Court street, Brooklyn. They all testified that so far as their relations with the testatrix had been concerned she had appeared to be rational.

Mr. Harkavy, who is named executor of the will, said that Mrs. Feinberg had first consulted him about making a will in June, 1941, and that he had made various drafts up to December when the will, which has been offered for probate, was drawn and executed. The witnesses produced by the proponent for the will were further questioned by Judge Kaufman, following their examination by Judge Cook. No witnesses in opposition to the probate were placed on the stand during this preliminary hearing.

Lutzin Is Named Treasurer of State Recreation Group

Sidney G. Lutzin, director of recreation of Kingston, was elected treasurer of the newly organized New York State Recreation Executives' Association at the organization meeting Wednesday in White Plains.

The other officers elected were: President, Peter Mayer, superintendent of recreation in New Rochelle; vice president, Frederick Futton, director of physical education and recreation in Albany; and secretary, Miss M. Esthyn Fitzgerald, superintendent of recreation in Utica.

The meeting, which was attended by 45 men and women in charge of recreational facilities in cities throughout the state, had been called to discuss the new physical fitness program set up by the state. Mr. Lutzin served as temporary chairman of the discussion group, which was followed by the organization of the new association.

SELF-CLEANING HOUSE PAINT developed by DUPONT

Starts brilliantly WHITE

Stays WHITE because it's "Self-Cleaning"

Is easy and fast to apply—has excellent hiding quality

Lasting beauty and protection

DUPONT House Paint keeps white houses white, because this brilliantly white paint is "self-cleaning." It forms a tough, durable film which protects the surface from rust, rot, or decay. Like all paints, it collects dirt on exposure to the elements. As time goes on, however, a fine white powder forms on the surface of this new paint. This powder is washed away by heavy rains, carrying the dirt with it and exposing a fresh white surface. This self-cleaning process starts after a few months of exposure under normal conditions of weather, but may be delayed under unusual dirt-collecting conditions such as found in sooty industrial areas. Because the "self-cleaning" process is gradual, the wearing qualities of the paint film are not abnormally affected.

Available in light COLORS, too!

The new Du Pont Tru-Tint formula gives you lovely light colors with the same super-value results. Like the white paint, these colors are "self-cleaning." Du Pont House Paint costs no more than other good paints... is more economical because it needs fewer repaintings. Next time you paint, ask your painter to use Du Pont House Paint!

Houses Being Razed

Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer of the Board of Public Works said this morning that the work of razing the two houses at 90-94 Ann street had been started. Employees of the board started work today demolishing the house at 94 Ann street. At the meeting of the board on Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Oppenheimer was authorized to proceed with the demolition of the buildings which had been declared unsafe. Mr. Oppenheimer said this morning that the two houses, which were owned by the city, are in such condition that but little, if any salvage, would result from taking the buildings down. Both buildings are two-story brick dwellings.

Blinker Is Hit
